“ Cherrie and I worked together at Chrysler in the 90's in Huntsville. She was one of the nicest people I ever knew. My husband and I moved to Denver and I was thrilled when she and Scott moved to Denver. We kept up again and did things together till they moved to Dallas. We kept in touch but not like we had and she invited me to Dallas and I her to Denver but it never happened. I got her Facebook updates for years and made comments and talked on the phone occasionally, but a few weeks ago noticed I hadn't gotten any Facebook notifications for awhile. I kept thinking I should contact her, but I didn't, life is busy. If there is one lesson I will take away is don't take things for granted. I always thought we would catch up when we retired. I will regret that forever. Don't let life be too busy. I have been crying all day but tomorrow will stop. The last thing she would have wanted is to be sad forever. She was and IS an angel.
